nication he received from Sir Thomas Wade, of a nature which required consideration before he proceeded further. One correspondent goes so far as to say that the Colonel was requested to retrace his steps, but as it was his fixed desire to persuade the Chinese not to go to war with Russia, both in their own interests and in those of the world, and especially in those of England, a course in perfect accord with the policy supposed to-have been pursued by Sir Thomas Wade with the Chinese authorities, it is difficult to believe that any such obstruction has been placed in his way. There is confirmatory ovidence, however, that something has cocurred, until ten lengths ahead at the finish. for when Colonel Gordon arrived in Tientsin in the Taku he expressed his intention of returning in her to Shanghai, and when she left he stated that he should wait for the Fungshun, which came away shortly after apparent sign of abatement. A really alarming case of outrage with intent to rob occurred on the Tauglin Road about seven p.m. on the 21st July—alarming, because it indicates an assurance and boldness on the part of the Chinese original class which says little for their fear of the police or their respect for Europeans. As Mr. Hewitt, of Messrs. Maclaine. Frase: & Co., was walking home to Mount Echo at the hour named, and when just past the entrance to the Officers' Quarters on Tanglin Road he fencied he heard footsteps behind him, and in turning round, he received a violent blow on the back of the neck with a heavy stick, his assailant being a commonly dressed Chinaman. Fortunately the force of the blow had been partly diverted, and Mr. Howitt was able to close with the man, and had nearly got him to the ground when another Chinaman rushed out of the hedge to the assistance of his comrade. General Palliser came up with a body some 1,500 strong, nearly all foot men, about three miles from Pudkao Shana, making for Altimore Pass. He at once attacked them. and on their retreating pursued them for eight 'miles over very rough ground, completely dispersing them and killing over two hundred, only stopping pursuit on reaching the hills. Our loss was Captain Barrow, A.D.C., severely wounded by a sword cut on both arms, three killed and twenty-four wounded: four horses were killed and several wounded. The enemy were chiefly Zurmuts: their leaders are not mentioned, but probably further particulars will be received to day, Sirday Afzal Khan has not arrived yet from Khanabad. He was expected yesterday; probibly he has been detained in Kohistan.

the fight of the 1st July at Padkap, it appears the enemy's picquets told their main body, employed in foraging, that the whole of the 3rd division was coming down on them, whereupon The main body took to flight, leaving the footmen, some 800, to their fate. The latter, seeing their cause was honeless, got into some sort of formation and made a very gallant stand for a short while against our cavalry, who made at solendid charge, completely breaking their formation and forcing them to scatter in flight 68 pkgs. merchandise. broadcast over the plain, the cavalry pursuing and cutting them down right and left. Some desperatchand to hand oncounters took place. The enemy, seeing very little chance of escaping into [ the hills, fought desperately, breaking into small graps and giving the cavalry some severe fighting. Several women were among them. Owing to the great distance from camp the pursuit was abandoued at 2 p.m. The whole line of the enemy's retreat was thickly strewn with ON CALCUTTA.—Bank, on demand 224 their dead. Native reports put the number killed at over 250. Our cavalry charged in line, the 1st P. C., on the right, the 19th B. L. on the left, the 2nd P. C. in support. Many arms were taken, including some Suiders and Martini-Henris. A deserter from the sappers was recognized and killed. The cavalry returned to camp at 6 p.m., and were loudly cheered by the troops. On the approach of General Palliser's force the leaders of the Zurmatties at once gallopped away; a portion of the enemy, taking advantage of the undulating, rocky ground collected in groups of from five to twenty to meet the cavalry charge, and were as a rule out down to a man. A greater number of them kept up a running fire during the pursuit. The lat P. C., was in the van ; many arms and several standards were captured. Captain Barrow undoubtedly would had been killed had not a Jemadar of the 19th B. L. linced his assailant, who was a malik. Several other officers had narrow escapes, notably Colonel Yorke, a bullet passing through his belowt and missing his head by one inch. Captain Gordon of 19th B. L. cut down five men and had the prongs of a jozail passed through his coat. Captain Barrow's wounds are not very recions, though one is a cut to the bone of the forearm. Supplies are coming in very freely from Kashi to Zurgan Shahr, now the road is being cleared of Zurmatties. The enemy are said to have been commanded by Mahomed Hassan Khan in person, but he fled with the other leaders at the commencement of the fight, Several Chilzai chiefs of importance are reported to be joining Hashim at Chakani. The telegraph wire was out last night between Butkhak and Lataband, many messages are thereby delayed. Afzul Khan was delayed at Khiujin owing to some Hazaras being engaged fighting in the pass, and, subsequently, owing to a snowstorm on the journey over the Hindu Kush. He and his party had to leave the regular road on account of a hand of maranders being about. Abdul Bahman left Khanabad on the 28th June, and encamped at Chasma on the 29th. He is probably now at Khinjan, where it is expected he will await further letters from the authorities here. The substance of the letters brought by Afzul Khan from Abdul Rahman to Mr. Lepel Grifin is unascertainable, but the letters are understood to be cordial and satisfactory. His final answer must be given by the 6th instant. The troops engaged in the affair near Paduao Shana consisted of detachments of the 19th, B.L., and let and 2nd P.C., the enemy were under Sultan Mahomed and Mahomed Syad Kha. Mir Butcha's gathering was entirely dispersed by Colonel Norman's reconnitring party; several of the enemy were killed and many woulded. The main body, which with Mir Butcha occupied the adjacent forts, fled to the mountains. Since - this affair many leading men of Kohdaman have offered their services to General Gough. Mir Butcha's force was composed of a band of Utkhel robbers whom he had lately enlisted. Five men and three women, all hadly wounded, were this morning carried into General Gough's camp for medical treatment, which was given them by Dr. Chasnaye of the 4th Goorkhus. It appears | Dry Thermometer ..... 85 5 81.0 85.0 84.0 that a party of Kuchis, consisting of eight men and five women, were peacefully resting in their tents when they were attacked by a number of Mir Batcha's ruffians. Though greatly outnumbered, the Kuchis vainly endeavoured to save their women and property, but all fell killed or wounded. To many of the inhabitants of Kohdaman the presence of the British troops is wolcome, as a chance of protection against the bands of thieves and murderers now infesting the district is afforded. News from General Gough's camp at Safian confirms the report of the increased rathering at Maidan. Afzul Khan arrived yesterday from Khanabad. He was delayed at Saralang pass for want of eacort, which was provided by Surwar Khan of Parwan. TANGLISH AND CHINESE DICTIONARY. WITH THE PUNTI AND MANDARIN PRONUNCIATION. An Anglo-Chinese Diotionary, published at the Daily Press Office, Hongkong. For comprehensiveness and practical service this Work stands unrivalled. All the new words which the Chinese have to late years been compelled to coin to express the numerous objects in machinery, photography, telegraphy and in science generally, which the rapid advance of foreign relations has imposed upon them, are here given in extenso. Each' and every word is fully illustrated and explained forming exercises or students of a most instructive nature. Both the Court and Punti pronunciations are given, the accents being carefully marked on the best principle hitherto attained. The typography, isplays the success of an attempt to make the Chinese and English type correspond in the size of body, thereby effecting a vast economy of space, achieving a clearness not previously attained, and dispensing with those vast margins and vacant spaces which have heretofore charactorized Chinese publications. To illustrate the vast scope of the work, the following facts are submitted for consideration :-Chalmers' Vocabulary contains about 16,000 Chinese characters, and Medhurst's English and Chinese Dictionary about 100,000, whilst this work contains more than 50,000 English words, and upwards of 600,000 Chinese characters. Again, despite all the grammars and other elementary works as yet published, the student of this difficult language absolutely requires examples to display the various applications and equivalents of different words which have one general meaning. Of these examples this work contains more than five times as many as any other Dictionary bitherto pub-

For practical purposes the arrangement of the work is so complete, that a reference to its pages enables a person who understands English to communicate effectively with natives who understand nothing but Chinese . In this respect the work will be found indispensable to all Europeans residing in Chias, and to the natives themselves it explains subjects fully with which very few indeed of them are perfectly acquainted. To parties resident in England and interested in China it cannot but be invaluable occasion-

It comprises upwards of two thousand large quarto pages.

EXTRACTS. WORK. If some great angel spake to me to night In awiul language of the unknown land, Bidding me chose from treasure infinite, From goodly gifts and glories in his hand, The thing I coveted; what should I take? Fame's wreath of lays? the fickle world's esteen Nay, greenest bars may wave on brows that ache, And world's applanding passeth as a dream. Should I choose love to ill mine empty heart, With soft, strong eweetness, as in days of old?

Nay, for Love's mpture hath an after smart, And on Love srose the thorns are manifold Should I choose Life with long succeeding years ? Nay, earth's long life is longer time for tears. I would choose Work, and never-failing power To work without weak hindrance by the way, Without recurrence of the weary hour When tired lyrant Nature holds its away Over the busy brain and toiling hand, Ah! if an angel came to me to night, Sponking in hinguage of the unknown land, So would I choose from transure infinite. But well I know the blessed gift I crave, ·The tireless strength for never ending task. Is not for this life. But beyond the grave It may be I shall find the thing I ask; For I believe there is a better land, Where will, and work, and strongth go hand in har -All the Year Hound.

It is a dry-goods box, with three shelves, painted in imitation of lacquer-work, and a curtain of our joint handiwork hangs over it, to keep our precious books from dust and harm. You must be satisfied when I tell you that Mweek I lie in bed in luxurious ease till the odour of soffee bids me arise; and the next, I rise early, build the fire and cook breakfast like a veritable "Biddy," and when it is ready I enter the parlour where Mawaits me, and, with a low bow, I say, "Breakfast is served, miss," as though I had never done anything else all my life long. We both wash the dishes, make beds, etc., and then start off to market. We find the stairs a great nuisance—for there is no elevator or dumb-waiter in the house. To avoid making any unnecessary trips from the cellar to our attic, we have rigged a bell, whose handle is a string, which hangs outside the house and ends in the back yard whenever the hutcher or baker or candlestickmaker wishes to leave anything for us, ho rings the bell, and we lower a basket from the back window to receive the article. The first time we tried the experiment, M--piously exclaimed, with folded hands and upturned eyes, "Truly, laziness, not necessity, is the mother of invention."

M goes every day, for three or four hours, to mint at the Art School, while I spend that time in practicing my singing lesson-for we both belong to that class of women, who, to use the sarcastic words of a "down east" friend, are "pursuin somethin." Our evenings we spend together. Sometimes we go to the theatre; for, in Beston, wherever it is proper for women to goat all, they can go unattended by gentlemen. We occupy cheap seats, and enjoy the performance quite as well as if we sat in a box and had some elegant young man, in swallow-tail and glasses, to talk to us during the fine parts of the play, and leave us for a drink in the intermis-Sometimes I go to a concert alone, for M- does not like music, but I have her escort to and from the Music Hall. EARLY YEARS OF EDGAR ALLAN POE. The law of chance, that has so much to do with the composition of a man, that makes no two alike, yet adjusts the most of us to a common average, brings about exceptional unions like the one from which the poet sprang. A well-born, dissolute Maryland boy, with a passion for the stage, marries an netress and adopts her profession-taking up a life thatiwas strolling, precarious, halfdespised in the pioneer times. Three children were the fruits of this love match. The second, Edgar, was born in Boston, January 19, 1809. From his father he inherited Italian, French; and Irish blood, the Celtic pride of disposition and certain weaknesses that were his bane.
